Dear Investor

Important information about the Threadneedle Japan Fund – no action required

As a shareholder in the Threadneedle Japan Fund, we would like to inform you that due to a ten-day 'Golden Week' holiday period in Japan this year, non-dealing days will be declared on the Fund from Friday 26 April until Monday 6 May 2019 inclusive. This means that investors will be unable to buy, sell, or switch shares in the Threadneedle Japan Fund during this period until the Fund reopens for dealing on Tuesday 7 May 2019.

Why are you declaring non-dealing days?

All Japanese securities markets will be closed due to Golden Week, a national holiday which occurs annually but has been extended this year to commemorate the accession of the new Emperor. This will leave markets closed to trading for six days and a consecutive ten-day holiday has been declared across the country. We have therefore decided that it is in the best interest for all investors in the Fund to not allow trading in the Fund shares during this period. Any deals received between 26 April until 6 May will be rejected. 6 May is already a non-dealing day as it is a public holiday in the UK.

Will this have an impact on any other Threadneedle funds?

No. This is the only fund within our range which has exposure to Japanese securities exceeding 10%, either directly or indirectly, making it the only fund eligible for a declaration of non-dealing days.

Do investors need to take any action?

No. Investors do not need to take any action. Any instructions placed during the non-dealing period will be rejected. Investors will need to reinstruct after Monday 6 May 2019.
